S.L. LEONARD & ASSOCIATES TO MANAGE DESIGN AND CONSTRUCTION FOR UNIVERSITY OF JUDAISM'S NEW CHAPEL AND LIBRARY EXPANSION

BEL AIR, CALIF. —Camarillo-based S.L. Leonard & Associates recently announced that it will be the university project manager for the design and construction of the University of Judaism's new 25,000-square-foot renovation and expansion of the Ostrow Library and new chapel. The library will house the university's rare book collection, including group study areas, public spaces, compact shelving, wireless Internet access and radio frequency identification for self-check out capability.

"The University of Judaism offers phenomenal cultural opportunities to students and community members," says Sean Leonard, president of S.L. Leonard & Associates. "It is an honor to help advance these programs through the expansion and construction of its facilities."

S.L. Leonard & Associates is a comprehensive development project management firm that is also working on the construction of the California Endowment Offices and Community Conference and Resource Center, the Camarillo Public Library, Fuller Lofts and Pacific Court Housing. The firm just recently completed work on the City of Hope Replacement Medical Center. Prior to starting his firm, Leonard was senior vice president of project management for Walt Disney Concert Hall.
